

PH MALLORCA

The elegant outdoor pool and living area is defined by the generous use of honed Goss Apollo limestone inset with mood lighting and contrasted by American walnut diving board and feature areas.

The modern living spaces are defined by the use of light in the building. The elegant sliding doors and glass staircase pour light on to the beautifully honed Goss Apollo limestone tiling.

Below: A sample technical drawing of a bathroom illustrates the level of planning and detail that goes into every single room.

We like to collaborate with other companies, this is part of what we do. We share our expertise of natural stone and provide companies with the best quality and service. PH Mallorca is a one of those companies. They are a subsidiary of PH Property Holdings Ltd, a highly successful residential and commercial property developer established in the UK since 1993. PH Property Holdings has been building some of the finest residential homes in the UK for almost fifteen years and has now extended its operations to Mallorca. Established in 2006 PH Mallorca opened an office in Port Andratx in 2007 and has commenced development of some of the most exclusive villas in the Mediterranean.

They have acquired thirteen individual plots in the exclusive Port Andratx area of Mallorca. Over the next few years these plots will be transformed into some of the most prestigious villas in the world. However for the fortunate few there is an opportunity to work with them and create a villa to your very own design and specification. This is where we come in and provide a completely tailored design service advising and assisting from stone choice and surface finish through to project management and installation.

A spectacular contemporary villa recently completed by PH Mallorca in the heart of La Mola one of Port Andratx's most exclusive residential enclaves. Designed around the breathtaking pool and outdoor living space we were able to provide all the natural marble and stone for this stunning light and airy home that provides superb family accommodation with stunning panoramic views.

The quality is in the detail and that is apparent by the beautifully crafted kitchen and bathrooms. These living spaces incorporate seamless flooring which continues from inside to outside in stunning honed Goss Apollo limestone.

Contemporary living spaces with Goss Apollo limestone wall and floor tiling throughout the whole ground and first floor.
